Randi Bjørkvik in personal communication dated 18 October 1972 writes: "Jeg er bortimot sikker på at Jens Bjørnsens far het Bjørn Ingebretsen og hans mor Sigrid, og på at Bjørn og Sigri først hadde brukt Melås, siden kom de til Hovland."

2 Jens Bjørnsen
"Jens Bjørnsen hadde skjøte på 10 lispund i vestre Hovland fra 1726 til 1738, men bodde der som leilending tidligere, vi finner ham der iallfall fra 1711, kanskje før. Han hadde 1711 allerede 4 barn, så han må ha vært gift 2 ganger." (Bjørkvik) "Jens Hofland" last appears in the Jevnaker parish register 3 May 1739.

Mari Johansdatter was at Lunner in 1755, at Oppen 1759 1760. At the baptism of her child Engebregt in 1771, the pastor wrote: "Moderen er Enken Mari Johans dtr Haagenstaejen, som foregiver at have aflet det med sin afdøde Mand; men da der regnes 43 uger fra Mandens Død til hendes Forløsning, og hun desuden haver et slæt rygte for Lætferdig omgængelse med andre strax efter Mandens Død, saa blev Barnet døbt for uægte, uaget hendes paastaaelighed i at navngive den afdøde for Barnefader." The following entries from the Jevnaker parish register may refer to her: Widow Mari Johansdatter married Niels Tomasen Solberg Eje 12 March 1780 Lunder. Mari Johansdtr Moesejen, age 44, was buried 16 April 1780 Jevnaker.

Gulbrand Jensen was at Hovelsrud when he was married in 1752. He lived at Høyby, his wife's family farm, until 1756 when he bought half of Vestre Totner in Nannestad for 300 dlr. He and Nils Larsen sold Vestre Totner 10 July 1758 to Jon Olsen Åmundrud for 800 dlr., and Gulbrand took over the lease on Åmundrud that Jon had previously held. His son Jens took over the lease 9 Dec 1793, and moved to Kopperud in Bjerke Parish in 1800; Gulbrand died at Kopperud later that year (the burial of "Gulbrand Jonsen Kopperud 83 aar gl.", recorded in the Nannestad parish register, is probably his burial). When Ole Gulbrandsen was born, his father was farmer at Nordre Bjerke. In 1785 his father bought Rud, and the following year Kringlerdalen, where the family lived until 1800 when they moved to Ullensaker (Ullensaker bb III 607); they were at Elstad in 1801. dragun 1808 1815. Dorthe was living at Skjennum søndre in 1808. After their marriage, Ole and Dorthe lived at Herstuen in the years 1816 to 1819, then at Søndre Moen from 1820 to 1822. They were apparently living at his father's farm, Grønbekk under Nordby in Ullensaker, in 1824, when their names appear as godparents for his nephew Svend Mortensen. Ole was living at Sømoe when his father's estate was probated in 1831, but nothing further is known of them. A Dorthe Jensdatter Herberg is mentioned in 1830, and a Dorthe Jensdatter Kopperud in 1842. Their children were all confirmed in Nannestad, the oldest in 1824, the youngest in 1836. When their daughter Johanne died in 1903, the burial record says she was born at Grønbekk, so there was memory of a family connection to that farm.

Olaus Gulbrandsen sold Kopperud to his uncle Ole Larsen in 1853 and emigrated to America (Kirkeby III 582). It is not known where he settled first; according to his death record, he came to Minnesota in July 1860.
He farmed in Section 21 Manchester Township. His death in a snowstorm in 1873 was described in detail in the following newspaper account:

"Shocking Death.

Horrible Case of Freezing.

On Sunday last, Olaus Gulbrandson, a Norwegian, living on section 22 in the town of Manchester, was found dead on the creek, south of Charles Bickford's, about six rods from the house of a Mr. Flint. When found, he was lying upon his face, evidently as he had fallen, his hands were drawn up in his mittens, the fingers clasping tightly the thumbs, showing that they had become intensely cold before his strength gave out. He was very poorly clad, his clothing affording but a slight protection against so pitiless a storm. The unfortunate man was in town with an ox team on Tuesday, and left about the time the storm struck. His sled was found several rods east of the Manchester road, and about 20 rods from Mr.
Bickford's. The yoke was near by, one bow replaced, while the other lay near it. The oxen were gone, and up to the present writing, only one of them has been found. He is known to have cultivated a habit of riding, under any circumstance or condition of the weather. The theory therefore is, that he kept his position in the sleighbox, trusting to the oxen to follow the road, until progress was arrested by heavy drifts. When finding that the cattle, unable to face the storm, had left the main road, he tried to get them back but was unable. Himself already chilled with cold, he unyoked his oxen, and leaving them to wander where they might, sought some place of shelter for himself. He turned west, crossed the main road, probably without knowing it, continued substantially this course until he reached the creek, where, completely, benumbed, stiffened, and exhausted, he pitched headlong down the depression, and forgot the pelting storm in this, his valley of death. He was between 40 and 50 years old, and leaves a wife to mourn his loss. One son, grown to manhood, is married and resides in Renville County.

Mr. G. was among the unfortunate, in a financial point of view; in debt beyond his ability to pay, his farm had but recently been foreclosed upon, and his widow is left in a helpless and destitute condition."

In the early years of their marriage, Lars and Karen lived at Grinda. Then he became husmann at Bråten under Rud øde, apparently in 1856. By 1874 they had moved to Snatet under Herberg; the census of 1875 says "leases a piece of land, makes a living partly at lumbering and partly by doing day labor for farmers". forpagter, Snatet, 144-5, 1891. Their names do not, however, appear in the emigrant records of the Christiania police department. The Dahl family in America reports that Elen Dorthea died soon after coming to America, possibly in were living at Flatner, and thereafter he was husmann at Grasmo the rest of his life (they are first mentioned as living there in 1872). Nordbjerke under 32/2, 1891. In 1906, Marie Gulbrandsen Grasmo's ownership of a holding called Stumo (32/19) was recorded (Kirkeby I 573). This may have been their husmannsplass. (Olaus' descent in Kirkeby IV 463.)

Gustav Gulbrandsen was a farm laborer all his life. The church records indicate that the family lived at Nordbjerke at first; they were at Sydbjerke in 1870 and 1872, and at Grinden in the years 1875 to 1883. In 1886 they were at Botten, and Gustav apparently took it over at this time. He turned it over to his oldest daughter and her husband, probably in 1899 when he bought Molstad under Kabberud (I have the bill of sale). This was his home the rest of his life, but he worked at Gårder. In a letter of 9 May 1909, his daughter Gusta says he is working as sveiser for Gulbrand Gaarder. Marie Bjerke said he virtually operated the farm, as the owner was not particularly capable. He was living with his granddaughter Marie Brovold at Gardermoen when he died in 1928. Staying at Kabberudsæter (33/1) at the time of the 1900 census, living in Ullensaker (00da); Molstad under 48/1, currently in Ullensaker, 1910

When Johan was born, his father was selveier at Tranbotn under Trandum in Ullensaker, but at the end of the 1860s his father sold the holding and moved to Trandumstuen. Johan and Alette lived at Trandumstuen until about 1890. In 1893 they were living at Gårder, where they lived at a holding called Kopperudstuen under Vestre, later called Smestad.
They were there in 1898, and in 1899 they were at Botten, her family farm, which her father turned over to them. About ten years later they moved to Gardermoen and lived at a holding called Nordbygården until 1942, when the airport was expanded by the occupying German forces. They then moved to Nybo under Gystad. Johan worked at the army base at Gardermoen, hauling manure from the cavalry horse barns. Harald Herva told me he was doing this when Harald was a boy; at that time he was called Johan Botten.
